General Comments:

Today's inspection took place in conjunction with investigating a complaint (CO#8779) our Department received alleging the owner of the facility was barbecuing food from his private home and transporting the food to this facility. While investigating this complaint, no evidence of barbecued food items was found. The owner of the facility had just arrived when the inspection was about to take place and there was no evidence of the owner transporting food from a personal vehicle into the food facility. As a result of what was observed during the inspection, this complaint will be dismissed as it could not be substantiated. The owner of the facility was made aware of the alleged complaint and was told that no food items made from a private shall be sold or given away at this food facility.

The facility has the capability of utilizing a skillet that is placed on the stove burners that gives an appearance of barbecuing; however, this item was not being utilized during the inspection.

All hand wash station were stocked with soap, paper towels, and hot water.

All cold holding units measured at or below 41F. The owner of the facility recently obtained two stand-up reach-in freezers for food storage. As a result, the facility only has two non-commercial freezers that will eventually be replaced with commercial units.

Food items on the steam table measured at well above 135F. In order to maintain food items at 135F or above on the steam table, please make sure to cover the food items with food grade lids.

All employees had proof of valid food handler cards. As a reminder, some of the employees' food handler cards will be expiring in August or September of this year. Please make sure employees take the food handler course prior to their certification expiring.

Inspection Findings and General Comments:

Today's complaint inspection (CO#8711) was prompted by a complaint our Department received alleging employees who attend to the cash register do not wash their hands after handling money and proceed with serving food. During today's inspection, it was observed that employees handle money and then handle food without hand washing taking place. As a result, the employee was spoken to about washing one's hands after handling money. This employee was also instructed to not place dish rags and utensils in the hand wash station, as its sole purpose is for hand washing. The dish rags and utensils that were observed in the hand wash station were removed during the inspection.
